them overpowered, the gutters and sewers being unable to carry off the great amount of water in so short a time. A portion of the fill on Noble street, above Indian Run, was washed out. The Street Commissioner was out at dark putting up railings to keep off teams or pedestrians. The sewer that runs from the neighborhood of the Fourth Ward School House became too full of water to hold any more, and a singular phenomenon was noticed at a large conductor communicating with

THE WOOL MARKET.
Stocks, Firmly Held, Especially for Medium Fleeces.
New York Bulletin of Saturday.
Stocks of attractive and desirable character continue to be firmly and confidently held, and our market for domestic wools is in very good shape. The wants of the manufacturing interest are steadily on the increase, in part owing to the fact that some mills have more work to do than expected, while others commence to reduce their supply of material with sufficient rapidity to warn them to be on the lookout for parcels to replenish. This is especially the case on the more desirable grades, such as medium fleeces, etc., of which the available quantity is quite small. The situation on other distributive markets also shows a tendency to steady improvement and with strong accounts from such accumulations as may still remain at primary points, the situation seems to be realizing previous hopeful anticipations. Business this week has been full and at extreme figures, with the supply of medi-

Wool prices at the close very greatly reduced, and nearly all the pulled stock gone, while in the Texas and Territorial grades received considerable attention, and the fine fleeces appear to be recovering favor. Advertisements from Boston and Philadelphia report a liberal business also, and taken altogether, the verdict seems to be that the situation is in better shape than for several seasons. The call is almost exclusively direct from consumers.

quantities of to be broken up for immediate distribution in small parcels, and the absence of speculation lends additional character to the market. The sales include 10,000 pounds No. 1 Ohio at 41c.; 6,000 pounds do. Western, 41c.; 50,000 pounds medium do., 39a40c.
